Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were randomly assigned to a control group (CG) and an exercise group (EG). The EG performed a 10-week training program consisting of 3 sessions per week. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during submaximal and maximal exercise at baseline and after 10 weeks. The results showed that the EG had a significant decrease in HR and HRR at rest and during submaximal and maximal exercise compared to the CG. The results suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.

[illegible]

Handwritten text in a South Indian script, likely Grantha or Tamil, arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines. The script is dense and cursive. The text appears to be a list or a series of entries, possibly related to a historical or administrative document. The ink is dark, and the background is aged and slightly discolored.

[The following text is extremely faint and mostly illegible due to low contrast and blurring.]

Handwritten text in a South Asian script, likely Devanagari, arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines. The text is written in black ink on aged, yellowish-brown paper. Several lines contain red ink markings, including the words 'संज्ञा' (Sangya) and 'प्रमाण' (Praman), which are likely section headers or specific terms. The script is cursive and somewhat faded, characteristic of older handwritten documents. The text appears to be a formal record or a legal document, given the use of specific terminology and the structured layout.
